Memo to Members, Tutors and Students of Aspley Classes for Seniors

This memo has three messages: (a) things to do; (b) more things to do with IT devices, and (c) a call for your input and interest and ideas for Aspley Classes for Seniors.

- (a) Reading, sudoku, Netflix serials, crosswords, audio books, old movies, radio, gardening, sleeping, phone calls, new cooking recipes...These are some of the many activities we find hard to fit into a normal day, even though we are now confined to the home barracks for a few weeks (hopefully).

- (b) Computers, smart phones and tablets provide even more opportunity to explore the world of the web: looking for concerts and documentaries on Youtube, listening to music on Spotify, corresponding with friends by email, learning words and phrases from languages, investigating real and idiosyncratic perspectives on the world, or playing games. Some of you may wish to refer your fellow volunteers or students in Aspley Classes for Seniors to activities on the internet, especially programs where there is a degree of interaction with others online.

But what is available to those of you who do not use computers and the Net? The activities in the first paragraph can be enhanced if your friends with computers can share ideas with you.

- (c) Do you have any ideas for Aspley Classes for Seniors during these months of home isolation? For the longer term, you can help the members of your Committee, and your fellow students, by letting us know your ideas for new courses and areas of interest. Please contact us by:
email at aspleycfs@hotmail.com or write to The Secretary, Aspley Classes for Seniors, c/- Aspley Uniting Church, 748 Robinson Road, Aspley 4034.

If you wish to chat with one of the committee members, please include your phone number and one of us will call you.
